C. Exceptions to the NYSRC Reliability Rules

A request for a new exception to a NYSRC Reliability Rule, or the removal or modification of a current exception to a NYSRC Reliability Rule must be submitted to the NYSRC Executive Committee for approval. Such requests to the NYSRC Executive Committee shall be initiated in one of two ways: (1) from an annual Transmission Owner review of current exceptions (initiated by the NYISO) made by a Transmission Owner (the Applicant), or (2) a request made at any time by a Market Participant (the applicant) or any member of the NYSRC Executive Committee (the Applicant).

In addition, the Applicant shall notify the NYISO when such requests are made.

The scope of an exception review by the NYSRC Executive Committee is to verify that the technical basis for the exception request is valid, but not to question the original justification for the exception if request is to modify or remove a current exception.

Deleted: NYISO or any member of the NYSRC Executive Committee (the Applicant) may submit a request for an exception. An applicant other than the NYISO shall obtain a recommendation for approval from the NYISO prior to submission of the request to the NYSRC Executive Committee.

Deleted: Approval by the Executive Committee is dependant on a successful demonstration that such an exception will not have an adverse impact on reliability.

Supporting Documentation

The Applicant shall meet NYSRC documentation requirements, including the following:

Deleted: NYISO

1. For a request for a new exception or a modification of a current exception, a technical assessment shall be submitted to the NYSRC demonstrating that there will be no adverse impact on reliability as the result of the NYSRC granting the exception request. For new exceptions, an assessment of economic impacts, environmental impacts, and/or reliability needs by granting the new exception shall also be submitted.

<sup>1</sup> A new exception or modification or removal of a current exception is termed an “exception change.”

4. The Executive Committee shall direct RRS to review the request for the exception change and any comments received from the NYISO to verify whether the technical merits of the request justify the exception change. RRS may request that the Applicant provide additional information in order to complete its verification review.
